Just three cases remain to be tried this term of criminal court at the county seat. They will be disposed of today and then criminal court will be adjourned until the November term. The case of the commonwealth against Joseph Auria, indicted for murder, which was to have been called Thursday was continued on account of the absence of a material witness. A large number of cases was scheduled on Thursday's list but pleas were entered in the majority of them.

Charles Peel, indicted for selling liquor without license to minors and on Sunday and for keeping a disorderly house withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of nolle contendere. Mrs. Peel and Helen Layton indicted with him, were discharged, there being no evidence against them. Peel was given a total sentence of four months and ten days in the workhouse and a fine of $600 and costs in the liquor cases and a fine of $1 and costs and three months in the workhouse on the disorderly house charge, making a total of seven months and ten days. FETTERMAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Racer Goes Through Fence At Belle Vernon Track When Tire Lets Go

DRIVER NOT MUCH INJURED

Probably the closest Phil Fetterman ever came to being crushed to death since he entered the auto racing game, occurred Thursday afternoon on the Belle Vernon track when he plunged through the fence with his big Simplex. As it was he emerged from the experience with a few scratches and badly bent up car.

Fetterman went to the course late in the afternoon and made about a score of laps around the track when the right front tire blew out as he was entering the curve from the second straightaway. He was clipping about 70 miles an hour when the tire let go and before he could swing the car back into its course it had struck the high board fence which serves to enclose the driving park as well as the track itself. Three of the heavy posts and twenty feet of the fence were reduced to kindling wood in a second. The car leaped a distance of twenty feet down the bank at this point without touching ground. In the descent the racer made a half turn in the air facing around nearly in the opposite direction when it came in contact with a post about ten inches at the base which it snapped off close to the ground. Here the plunge of the car and driver was halted on the brink of a second embankment dropping thirty feet to the railroad. Fetterman hung to the wheel when it took the plunge and went through the shower of flying timber without more serious injury than a number of minor cuts and bruises and small puncture of the right eyeball.

The car was not badly damaged, but the frame, radiator and springs were twisted and broken. A half dozen mechanics worked all last night making repairs and the car will be in shape for the race today and Saturday.

Several score of persons who saw the car go through the fence from the grandstand ran to the opening, expecting to find Fetterman mangled beneath his wrecked car. Instead they discovered him leaning on the hood contemplating the damage. He said this morning that he was ready to try it again this afternoon.

The Tri District Teachers' Institute was brought to a close at Donora and Charleroi are now preparing and the schools of Monongahela, Donora and Charleroi are no wpreparing for the opening of school next Monday. The institute has been one of the best of the three so far held.

Thursday was a feature day at the institution. In the afternoon the two speakers were Dr. A. D. Dean, and Edward Howard Griggs the latter of New York City. He was formerly the president of Leland Stanford University.

Special musical features of the Thursday evening session were vocal solos by Miss Margaret R. Smiley, supervisor of music in the Donora schools and Miss Della MacFarland, supervisor of music in the Monongahela schools.

"Child Labor and Education" was the subject that Dr. Dean took up this morning and Dr. Griggs discussed "The Educational Value of History and Literature."

The close of the session was featured by reports of committees and the passage of resolutions.

County Detective Mitchell, With State Troopers, Breaks up System

"JOINTS" WELL ORGANIZED

Central Point of Supply Located, And 38 Pint Bottles of Intoxicating Beverage Are Dug From Ground

Having made a thorough investigation this week County Detective E. H. Mitchell of Washington, assisted by two s tate troopers, made a raid on speakeasies which were running wide open at the West Alexander fair Thursday. The raid brought to light possibly more such places than the investigation showed the booze selling having been well organized.

The first raid was made on a small tent at one end of the grounds which seemed to be the source of supply for all speakeasies on the grounds. In one trunk which was opened ten one-half pints of whiskey were found. It was claimed by the man in charge that the supply was for his personal use. Granting him this allegation Mitchell gave him one-half hour to make his getaway.

This man made a pretense of running a lemonade stand and when Detective Mitchell raided it he found a big satchel containing about three or four dozen half pints. Getting this evidence the officers returned to the tent to place the man under arrest but he had made a hasty getaway, not even waiting to close the trunks.

About five minutes later another stand was inspected where a trunk was opened revealing eight pint bottles. The man in charge was alleged to have sold a pint bottle from the trunk for $1. This stand was in charge of Edwin Wickerham of Philadelphia. He was put under arrest. When ordered to change his white waiter's costume for civilian clothes he fainted, falling heavily to the ground. A physician was summoned and the man was removed to a farm house near the fair grounds. It was four hours before he regained consciousness. Upon his recovery he was instructed to get out of the county which he did immediately.

Several other stands were also inspected but evidently the owners having been informed of the raid, had disposed of all booze on hands for none could be found. A second visit it was made to the tent at which all stands seemed to be supplied, following the second discovery. It was noticed that the ground had been dug up and Detective Mitchell made another discovery. In a hole about 18 inches deep he found 38 half pints. He broke them where they were found. The balance of the booze was taken to the secretary's office.

The booze joints seemed to have been well organized as all were in touch with each other and it was said had been operating since the fair opened in full view. The bottles, which were largely half pints in most cases were carefully wrapped in paper.

The raid was made upon an investigation by the officials of the association working with Detective Mitchell. The officials stated that they would not permit such violations of the law at West Alexander.

PROTECTING WILD LIFE.

That there is a rapidly growing sentiment for the conservation of wild game in Washington county as well as throughout the state, was evidenced by a recent incident. A few days ago a farmer called a Washington justice by telephone and notified him that a party of men were seining in a nearby creek, says the Washington News. It developed later that the men were only seining for minnows to be used as bait. Nevertheless, the fact stands out that the farmer was interested in the work of the Wild Life League and showed willingness to co-operate with the League in preventing violations of the law.

Even though, as it turned out, there was no violation of the law involved in this particular case, the farmer who reported the matter is to be commended. He was interested in seeing that the law was enforced and he followed the proper course when he took the trouble to notify the authorities. Where one mistake is made under some circumstances there will doubtless be many times where the report is correct. Prompt action, made possible by the co-operation of the farmers, will go a long ways toward instilling the fear and respect for the law into many who otherwise have no regard for it.

The first outsider since 1886 has filed his petition as a candidate for judge in Washington county. He is a Fayette county man and aspires to election on the non-partisan ticket. There is a wrinkle of the law that few know about, but it is a question whether or not it is going to help matters any, excepting to satisfy the ambitions of our Socialist friends to have a complete ticket.

Rapid strides are being made by the suffragist workers in the Charleroi vicinity and their efforts are resulting in numerous "promises" on the part of voters to look at the ballot "right" when the November election comes. It must be admitted even by the antis that the woman suffrage cause has plently to hope for this fall and that votes for women don't appear far off in Pennsylvania.

There won't be as much creeping unwillingly to school in Charleroi next Monday as there would have been in Shakespeare's time, for the athletic affairs of high school and the grades have been a great stimulus to educational work.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Ever since they came to school last morning two of the boys had been persistently naughty. At last, therefore, the teacher, now thoroughly exasperated, turned to them angrily, and said that they must stay in during playtime until each had written his name 1,000 times.

Playtime duly came and as the rest of the class rose and hastened from the room to enjoy a spell of freedom, the two miscreants settled down to their irksome imposition.

Five minutes later the teacher returned to see how they were getting on and found a heated argument in progress.

"Come, come!" she asked. "What's the matter now?"

Whereupon one of the boys burst into tears.

"'Taint fair mum!" he gasped. His name's Tim Bust and mine's Alexander O'Shaughnessy!"

The Irish guards were holding a position at Ypres and flying bullets were the order of the day. The Germans endeavored to break through and after a particularly brisk volley Private Flynn was heard to shout.

"Murder of war, I'm done now altogether!"

"Why have you been hit?" shouts Captain Casey.

"Not entoirely hit, sor," shouts Flynn, "but I've been waitin' this ten minutes for a smoke from Murtagh's pipe and by the powers they've just shot it out iv his mouth."

Tallest Flagpole.

A fitting symbol of the mighty forests of the West is Astoria's flagpole, the tallest in the world, which floats the stars and stripes 241 feet above the Panama-Pacific exposition sea wall at the corner of the Oregon building. The stick, for it is a single stick of timber, is actually 251 feet long, but ten feet of the butt is imbedded in a 200-ton block of solid concrete, which, without other stays, holds the pole upright against the wind.

The pole was shaped from the trunk of a Douglas fir, which, as it originally stood in the Oregon forest, towered 347 feet in the air, and might have matched its height, though not its girth, against any but the loftiest of the California sequoias. Looking up at the great flagstaff, it is hard to realize that it weighs upward of 46 tons, and that there is lumber enough in it to build five ordinary eight-room houses. Its great height gives it an appearance of slenderness and lightness.—San Francisco Chronicle.

IMPROVED BY MORE SLEEP

London Schoolchildren Recently Made the Subject of Some Interesting Experiments.

There are some interesting conclusions in the first report of the recently appointed official psychologist to the London county council—a post which is, I believe, unique in this country. Mr Cyril Burt's chief work is in applying tests to backward children in the schools to ascertain whether or not they are suitable for tuition in the special classes for the mentally defective. Mr Burt has examined over 2,000 children—400 subnormal children, 200 certified mental defectives and about 1,400 normal children. The great majority of the 400 children who were presented by the teachers on the ground of mental insufficiency were found to suffer from mere dullness, backwardness or special and limited defects rather than from mental deficiency. Only 24 passed the medical examination for admission to a mentally defective school. Mr. Burt says there is a striking disagreement as to where the line between the defective and the ordinary child is to be drawn and remarks that school progress is only a very indirect measure of mental ability or defect. His conclusion is that there is no one definite or constant mental characteristic in which children classed as mentally defective resemble one another and differ from ordinary children. In intelligence, as in every other quality, they overlap enormously with ordinary children and are not a separate class or species, but largely simply the inefficient tail-end of a more comprehensive normal group. Mr. Burt's report suggests the need of more delicate discrimination in the selection of children to be classed as mentally defective. He carried out an interesting investigation to show the influence of loss of sleep upon school work. In one school the children were divided into two groups. One group were allowed to sleep for two hours daily in school, the other group worked in the ordinary way. It was found that among the children who were allowed to sleep those who suffered most from lack of sleep at home gained greatly in general ability. In the worst cases the gain more than made up for the loss of time. Experiments of the same kind are going on, which Mr. Burt says may show that lack of sleep may be as damaging to school work as lack of food.—London Mail.

Brains and Colds.

It is believed that by the discovery of causes of "catching cold" which has just been made by Dr. C. M. Richter, it has been determined that the quick-witted and those who use their brains a good deal catch cold much more easily than those who do little brain-work and are mentally slow. Wherever a case was found of someone who was extremely susceptible to influenza or even simple cold, either that person was engaged in some professional work, or there was considerable tax upon him in factory or in office, or else his work required some especially keen exercise of the mind. The mentally heavy, slow-going kind of person very rarely has a cold. In working out this problem it was found that resistance to cold is not so much a matter of what one wears as of what one is. It is those people who suffer most keenly when it is very cold or very hot, who have a headache when they face a high wind, whose hair crackles with electricity when they comb it—in a word, it is those who are nervous and highly organized who most readily fall victims to the insidious "colds in the head."

Killing an Exact Science.

Said a man who knows mechanics as an open book: "The acme of preciseness and the perfection of all mechanism known to the human race is devoted to the art of killing men."

He was talking to me about the extreme exactness of range-finders for big guns—of which he has been asked to construct 100. "I know of no other thing in the wide domain of mechanics," said he, "that is worked out with so great care as these range-finders."

He told me that with that instrument it is possible to plant a shot within one yard of the desired target ten miles away. When I remarked that that required unusual delicacy, this scientist replied: "No, not delicate, because one of these finders weighs one hundred pounds, but they must be mechanically exact and perfect."

One might almost be tempted to say that killing men in war has become an exact science.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Ultimate Condition.

A soldier of the allies was dodging German shells; it couldn't have been hotter along the Dardanelles. The gun which did the business was somewhere on the Rhine, but every time it thundered it hit the allies' line.

The soldier burrowed deeper within his little trench; he watched the counter missiles responding from the French. The range was something awful for shooting on the fly, and shells as big as barrels were arching through the sky.

The soldier thought of Caesar, who once divided Gaul; he thought of Agamemnon before the Trojan wall. He thought about the progress in military craft, and in the din of battle he actually laughed.

"It won't be long," he reasoned, "until we shoot it all; the Briton on his island, the Frenchman in his Gaul. We'll all set up our common upon our native lawns, and hammer one another from our respective bastions."

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate Eckman's Alterative, a remedy which has caused many recoveries. One follows:—

3333 Girard Ave., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen:—In the winter of 1903 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia, and later by Lung Trouble. In the winter of 1904 I had a cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff, and later I had many hemorrhages, at one time three in three successive days. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) ANNIE F. LOUGHRAN.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and up-building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitute. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

AMONG THE THEATRES

PALACE—CHARLEROI

An unusually good program was presented at the Palace theatre during the past week. On Monday Francis X. Bushman the favorite star enacted the leading role in "The Plum Tree." This was a thrilling picture portraying the story of an innocent man who served a prison sentence because of a framed up plot against him. Another good feature Monday was "The Maker of Dreams" a society drama. Wednesday "The Strange Story of Sylvia Gray," a mystery picture was featured. The last three days of the week an excellent vaudeville program was presented, the headline act of which was "The Great Toli" who did daring "stunts" with cannon balls and other dangerous missiles. Hill and Francis entertained with songs and impersonations. "The Elliotts" presented a comedy sketch of Irish wit. Another good picture shown during the week was "The Dead Soul."

COYLE—CHARLEROI

The Coyle theatre had another great run this week with a splendid assortment of plays. One of the biggest featuring attractions of the entire week was that of the appearance on Wednesday night of the Kiferle orchestra of Connellsville. It is the orchestra which plays at Shady Grove park. Splendid music was furnished the patrons of the Coyle. On Monday night was presented "Dr. Rameau" with Frederick Perry in the leading role. Tuesday was the day of the presentation of a big feature, "The Rug Maker's Daughter," with Maude Allen in the title role. This was one of the famous Paramount productions. "The Second in Command," with Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow at their best in their dramatic work was the big feature photoplay of Wednesday On Thursday Blanche Sweet appeared in the Paramount attraction, "The Clue." Manager Coyle is announcing for Saturday, "Jealously; What Art Thou," with Ben Wilson and Dorothy Phillips.

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

At the Majestic theatre this week Managers Polites and Gregory presented some famous dramas and pleased the large crowds which nightly surged into this attractive new photoplay house. With a full orchestra playing one of the best nights of the week was Tuesday. An especially strong program was presented with "The White Sister" as the headliner. In six splendid reels this masterpiece was unusually strong, with brilliant acting and fine scenic effects. Viola Allen was seen at her best in the title role. On Monday night a Mutual masterpiece "The Lure of the Mask" was featured. A full orchestra played then too. In this stirring drama a compelling story was told, good acting making the production seem an especially strong and attractive one. "The Diamond From the Sky" was the big feature of Thursday, another of the chapters of this drama being related. A good bill is being prepared for presentation next week.

Activities of Women.

Women in Germany are now being given military training.

The pulse in women is from one to five beats higher than in men.

Because his wife moved 39 times in 10 years, E. T. Turner of Camden, N. J., is seeking for a divorce.

Four policewomen have been appointed in Pittsburgh to censor all magazines sold in that city.

For conspicuous bravery in the performance of duty, Mrs. Isabella N. Goodwin, a police matron, has been placed in the honor regiment of the New York police force.

Miss Rose Pitonoff of Dorchester, Mass., was the first swimmer of either sex to cover the 12 miles between Charlestown bridge and Boston, although many famous home and foreign watermen had previously attempted the feat.

Women are now being employed in all the large factories in England where munitions are manufactured.

A woman must be between the age of thirty and forty to be eligible to appointment on the Chicago police force.

Miss A. Florence Yerger, Philadelphia's most successful woman lawyer, has more business than she can handle herself and has been compelled to open three offices in different parts of the city.

Since the dominion of Canada was created forty-one years ago there have been only 443 divorces granted, while in the United States in the same period of time the courts have dissolved 1,274,241 marriages.

Regulating Electric Lamps.

The demand for regulating the degree of light from an electric lamp has resulted in a lamp which has been recently exploited, containing two separate filaments of the lamp, which may be operated separately or together, giving the lamp a rating of 200 watts, with each filament taking 100 watts. A consumption of 0.6 watt per candlepower is claimed for this lamp, and it has a life of 2,000 hours if the filaments are burned separately, or 1,000 when they are burned together.

Happiness.

"I have tried all sorts of happiness, and it never lasts" said a spoiled, petulant, cynical woman.

"Did you ever try forgetting yourself for six months?" said a shrewd listener. The question went to the heart of the trouble. To paraphrase an old proverb, when self comes in at the door, happiness flies out of the window.

The Difficulty.

Maud—Haven't you and Jack been engaged long enough to get married?

Marie—Too long. He hasn't got a cent left.—Boston Evening Transcript.

A Palpable Hint.

Mr. Slowboy (calling on girl)—You seem—er—rather distant this evening.

The Girl—Well, your chair isn't tilted down, is it?—Boston Transcript.

LIQUOR CASES

the new manufacturing town in Smith township.

Carl Martin and William Garner, also of that section entered pleas of guilty of selling liquor without license. Martin has been out on his own recognizance, being a sufferer from tuberculosis. Upon motion of his counsel sentence in his case was suspended until the November term and he was allowed to go. Garner was given the usual sentence of costs, fine of $50 and three months in jail.

Keranz Hrmeka of North Strabane township indicted for carrying concealed weapons, was acquitted, but the costs were put on him. The evidence in the case was contradictory. The defendant testified he never had a gun. Other evidence was that he had beaten a fellow countryman with the gun.

Mary Zamarsky of Bentleyville, indicted for open lewdness was acquitted. The costs were divided between her and the private prosecutrix, Mary Mutsick. The two women quarreled and exhanged some rather choice language.

Milan Milkovich a beer agent representing Joseph Weiser a wholesale liquor dealer of East Liverpool, O., entered a plea of guilty to charges of selling liquor without license. Sentence was suspended until Monday, September 6. It is understood that the same disposition may be made of the cases as has been done in four others this term. The defendant may be paroled, upon the payment of the fine of $500 and costs, and agreeing to the conditions imposed on the parole that he not be connected in any way with the liquor business in the county.

William Seddon, charged by his wife Mary Seddon, with assault was acquitted yesterday but was assessed the costs. In a quarrel between the wife and husband she alleged he struck her.

First Aid to the Backward.

Ingenuity of college students in writing badly after they have "passed off" the required freshman or sophomore course in composition is extraordinary. Perhaps it is a reassertion of native inaptness, perhaps it is sheer carelessness. But the remedy to be adopted at Harvard, after special study of the problem, is a patient one. A standing faculty committee is to be appointed, and "instructors in all courses will be urged to send to the committee any examination book, thesis or other piece of work which has demonstrated the writer's inability to express his thought." The committee will thereupon prescribe additional work in English for the delinquent students. The very warning should end mere slovenliness, and those whose fault lies deeper should be grateful for the discipline.—New York Evening Post.

INTERESTING FAMILY HISTORY BROUGHT OUT AS RESULT OF REUNION

The third reunion at the old original home place of William Mary Dodson Riggs and Edward Riggs, now the home of the family of the late Oliver S. Riggs in Allen township was held recently. Wm. Mary Dodson Riggs and Edward Riggs located there in 1775, the first settlers west of the Monongahela river, in Allen township.

They being the first in this vicinity, and nowhere to lay their head, sought refuge underneath a huge projecting rock, building hewed logs on either side of the rock, this protecting them from the wild animals and Indians of the forest until such time as they could build a suitable home. In a few years a number of settlers came and located near. On this Riggs home place is a huge historical rock. The Rev. Edward and William Riggs selected it for their pulpit from off of which they proclaimed the word of God to the assembly below. They ascended this rock by means of a ladder. Here they preached to the first congregation held in Washington county, and it might well be said it was the first grove meeting held, which is in vogue today. Where is there an edifice that can surpass it? And where are there hearts as free from guile as their's?

Washington county can well feel proud of this first primitive church. A large number of relatives met at this old home place. they came from Fredericktown to Pittsburg, including members from all the valley towns, Washington and Bentleyville.

Prof. Robert Alexander Riggs, superintendent of public schools of Wellsburg, W. Va., and family were in attendance. Also Willam Riggs of Moundsville, W. Va., a prominent contractor. The prominent families of Allen township were well represented. The table had a seating capacity of one hundred people, two tables were served.

The only surviving grand-children of these first settlers are Mrs. Caroline Riggs Hazelbaker and Mrs. Lucinda Riggs Nobel of California; they in company with their relatives, led the way to this "Historical Rock," where G. G. Glotfelty photographed them. It was here that these beloved grand-aunts, aged respectively 87 and 85 years, when children worshiped with their grand-parents.

E. P. Worrell, president of this association, upon return to the old home place, called the meeting to order there was prayer, music, etc. A recitation was given by Miss Mae Pringle, entitled, "The Pioneer," then followed the reading of the history of the family by Mrs. James W. Riggs; Mr. Raymond Chester led in the singing of the hymn "On Christ, the Solid Rock, I Stand." It was voted that this "Riggs Rock" should be the association's emblem. On Saturday, August 28, there will be a joint reunion of all these pioneer families at Oakland park along the Charleroi street car line.
